Written from Memory by the Participants

Meditation Verses used repeatedly in the Esoteric Lessons from 1913-1914..... 1

1913

JANUARY 2, 1913, COLOGNE..... 23

Separation from the direction represented by Mrs. Besant. Proper attitude regarding her as a personality and her deeds. Two rules of the Essene Order and their use today in connection with the Rosicrucian mantra: going to sleep with the consciousness of Ex Deo nascimur (love). Maintaining consciousness at transition moments. Visualizing the body in sleep as a preparation for imaginative seeing (house with door, corpse in the coffin, angel with chalice). Taking In Christo morimur (humility) with us into the time after death. The nature of spiritual substance after death, before and after the Mystery of Golgotha. Self-consciousness after death through Per Spiritum Sanctum reviviscimus.

JANUARY 4, 1913, COLOGNE..... 35

The esoteric processes around Mrs. Besant are no longer a matter of Western or Eastern esotericism but of truth and of untruth. The perception of thoughts disturbing meditation as progress. The experience of It thinks me, It weaves me, It works me connected with the feelings of devoutness, reverence and awe, gratitude. Living out karmic connections within the blood ties before the Mystery of Golgotha. Christ as the second Adam.

JANUARY 6, 1913, BERLIN..... 43

MARCH 21, 1913, THE HAGUE.....	77
Two possible experiences with meditating: 1. Being lifted up, expansion; the approach of yellow-red beings (archangels); bliss and fear. 2. Sinking down, contraction; the approach of blue-violet beings (angels); trembling, seeing oneself. Unification of these figures: conflict and temptation from Lucifer. Rosicrucian mantra.
MARCH 25, 1913, THE HAGUE.....	82
The four statements: I am; I think; I feel; I will . The sounds of the three mantras (It thinks me; It weaves me; It works me .) and the Rosicrucian mantra.

MAY 14, 1913, STRASSBURG.....	95
About the moral world and the natural world: the esotericists must unite them (examples: Sun, Moon, Mercury, Venus). Separated, the natural world contains forces that cause illness. Matter as concentrated sin. Lucifer's influence: egotism. Pain as a remedy against egotism. The necessity for morality with the ascent into the spiritual worlds. The Rosicrucian mantra.

SEPTEMBER 3, 1913, MUNICH.....	129
The difference between exotericism and esotericism. About the plurality and unity in philosophy and in esotericism. Recognizing only the unity is succumbing to Lucifer; acknowledging only the plurality is succumbing to Ahriman. System as dogma: ahrimanic. Forcing or imposing of a spiritual truth: luciferic. The book Theosophy , without the necessary effort of thinking would be luciferic. Concerning the so-called “vibrations.” Effects of meditation.

OCTOBER 5, 1913, CHRISTIANIA (OSLO).....	150
Lack of “robustness” in the thought life of esotericists. Pain through thoughts that are not in conformity with the laws of world existence, for instance, Crookes’ microscopic human being. Feelings of cold and of warmth with various thoughts and philosophies. Example: oil-filled bowl in which a flame burns (image of the four members of the human being). The change of the etheric body at various places: North: expansion; South: compression.

OCTOBER 6, 1913, CHRISTIANIA (OSLO)..... 158

Justified and unjustified working of Lucifer and Ahriman. Ahriman: Lord of Death, his working through fear (materialism). Being satisfied as protection. Lucifer: promoter and stimulator of art and free science; temptation to arrogance; his working in naturalistic-realistic dramas (G. Hauptmann). Humility and modesty as protection. Lucifer and Ahriman carry their "I" onto the physical plane. Every being has its world in which it must experience its "I." About fainting at the sight of blood. Changes in the etheric body: North: expansion; South: compression; East: becoming small.

OCTOBER 11, 1913, BERGEN..... 159

Typical experiences in connection with meditating: tingling, prickling, buzzing or roaring in the blood (becoming conscious of egotism). Shortness of breath (lack of sense of truth). Weakness and breaking into a sweat (experiencing the physical body as hindrance). A kind of pleasant dream-state (lack of sociability). Remedy against egotism (example: Gospel of John). Cultivation of devotion.

OCTOBER 15, 1913, COPENHAGEN..... 162

The human aura as a shell to be broken through in order to achieve access to the spiritual world. The Rosicrucian mantra. Temptation by Lucifer through voices; by Ahriman through images. Producing concentrated attention without an object in the meditation: overcoming Lucifer. The experience of being outside of oneself (image of the lightning). The nature of the mantra in relation to the concept. The result of the Fall. Duties and experiences of esotericists.

NOVEMBER 9, 1913, NUREMBURG..... 171

Esotericists must pay attention to the subtlest processes. Imaginations are given. Esotericists objectify their other human being. Lucifer's temptation approaches from within; Ahriman's from outside. Examples are given. Learn to draw conclusions about earlier experiences. Reproach works strongly in the subconscious.

NOVEMBER 10, 1913, NUREMBURG..... 173

Our behavior in relation to the spiritual world. The spiritual teacher as educator: esotericists must be treated as developing, becoming beings. Even if we do not enter into the spiritual world consciously it is important to devote ourselves to the esoteric life. What matters is the prevailing mood of soul. The human aura is described as a shell to be broken through in order to achieve access to the spiritual world. Imaginations are given. The Sun as the center of our "I".

NOVEMBER 17, 1913, BERLIN..... 175

Before the Mystery of Golgotha on the Sun, Christ is found on the Sun; now in the aura of the Earth. What would be the result if human beings received their "I"-consciousness in the second seven-year period of life? Life in eight dream-like states with the image of death beside them. Cowardice today before the spiritual world. Results of rejecting the Christ impulse: the soul becomes desolate and sclerotic; feeling the death forces. Weariness of life, suicide epidemics.

NOVEMBER 23, 1913, STUTTGART..... 185

Flighty thoughts revealing the life of desires as a hindrance to spiritual progress, but also as a means of attaining self-knowledge. The connection between desire (interest) and memory. Love for Lucifer and Ahriman. The work of Ahriman as shown by two examples: in the seeking of excuses in self-knowledge; in false philosophical ideas (conversation of Deussen and Nietzsche about denial of the will and ennoblement of the will). Knowledge of Lucifer and Ahriman in all of our doing and not-doing. The increasing of the spiritual and the dying away of the material in connection with the Rosicrucian mantra.

DECEMBER 9, 1913, MUNICH..... 191

Results of the progressive sensitizing of esotericists through meditation: noticing disturbing thoughts, bodily pain during meditation. The appearance of peculiar experiences that were imprinted earlier, consciously or unconsciously, into the etheric body (visions of violent scenes, and so on). Improvement and refining of the good side; independence of the ugly side. The encounter with Christ. Inspirations coming out of the higher worlds for the material world; examples: Wallace, Darwin.

DECEMBER 18, 1913, COLOGNE..... 196

As soon as we begin an esoteric training the soul changes. A consequences of esoteric training: loosening of the physical, etheric, and astral bodies and the "I" and thereby peculiar experiences appear that were imprinted in the etheric body. We incarnate again and again to achieve truthfulness and morality in the physical world.

DECEMBER 30, 1913, LEIPZIG..... 197

View of psychologists of the Middle Ages: the entire soul life is intentional. Thinking without an object. Astral body and "I" during sleep are pulled out of the blood and nervous systems; strong penetrating of the sense and glandular systems. Luciferic warmth and the warmth raying out of the spiritual world-warmth that reveals itself as cold in meditation. The Rose Cross and the Rosicrucian mantra.

JANUARY 2, 1914, LEIPZIG..... 209

The subsidiary exercises as a means for learning to know the different members of the human being. About the pain that appears in connection with meditation. Observation of the physical body through concentration of thinking; knowing the etheric body through the will exercise; becoming conscious of the astral body through equanimity; of the "I" through positivity; of the manas through openness. Harmonization of the various capacities. Necessities for esotericists: practice patience and truthfulness. Development of an ordinary, good memory. Penetrate all actions with attention and reflection.

JANUARY 11, 1914, BREMEN..... 219

The contracting of the warmth ether during meditation. Being ashamed. The attention toward the inside and toward the outside.

JANUARY 24, 1914, BERLIN..... 220

The way into the spiritual world: an easier ascent for those feeling-natures with a religious disposition; a harder ascent for will-natures, suffering through the emotions. The path of thinking: longest but safest way. The Rosicrucian mantra.

FEBRUARY 7, 1914, HANNOVER..... 223

Advice for meditation. Feelings of warmth and coolness during prayer with exotericists or esotericists. Effects of subsidiary exercises. Will exercise, feeling oneself in the etheric body. Equanimity, and expanding of the etheric body. The experience of the first two sentences of the Rosicrucian mantra in the first three subsidiary exercises; of the third sentence in the fourth exercise positivity.

MARCH 5, 1914, STUTTGART..... 226

Etheric body as originator, physical body as mirror of thoughts. "Sein" [existence] comes from "Sehen" [to see]. Matter as nothingness; the spiritual world as actual reality. Feeling the nothing as resistance. Consciousness of the strengthened soul life for the elemental world. Transformation of good thoughts into eternal imaginations; bad or evil thoughts as waste products. Comparison with the origin of the mineral kingdom -- the earthly dust from which Yahweh created the human being -- through the errors of the elohim on the old moon; the work of Lucifer. The relation of the physical and spiritual worlds. Instructions for mantras.

MARCH 27 AND APRIL 14, 1914, VIENNA..... 235

Becoming independent of our thought life through the mantra: "I turn to the things..." The living "I" becoming conscious of itself through "spirit light warmed me...". Feeling the sense world as pearls of existence in the real being of the spirit: "Luminous 'I' and Beacon-soul...". The connection with the Rosicrucian mantra.

Progress through the right mood of the soul with meditation. “It thinks me,” instead of “I think.” Concentrating of the self in the etheric body. The experience of our own goodness and badness. Instructions for the mantras: “I turn to the things...”; “Spirit light warm me...”; “Luminous ‘I’ and beacon-soul...”.

MARCH 31, 1914, MUNICH..... 253

Hindrances to becoming conscious of progress. Thoughts: reflections of thinking by the physical body. Feeling ourselves spread out or expanded as a sign of weakening. What underlies the good and the bad thoughts. Instructions for the three mantras: “I turn to the things...”; “Spirit light warm me...”; “Luminous ‘I’ and beacon-soul...”. The Rosicrucian mantra.

APRIL 25, 1914, BERLIN..... 260

The yearning for the physical body as cause of the lack of consciousness in the spiritual world during sleep. The work on the twelve senses by elemental beings serving the spirits of form; these elemental beings will make up the future Jupiter zodiac. The work on the blood system by elemental beings serving the spirits of movement; these elemental beings will build the future Jupiter sun. Lucifer’s working: sense experience. Ahriman’s working: world experience.

MAY 9, 1914, KASSEL..... 272

Contact with the spiritual in dream, in memory. Day-consciousness comes about at the boundary between the new soul core and the old spirituality. Nature as the remaining memory of what the hierarchies once thought. Lucifer strives even yet to think the error. Instructions for the three mantras: “I turn to the things...”; “Spirit light warm me...”; “Luminous, ‘I’ and beacon-soul...”.

JUNE 3, 1914, BASEL..... 281

Lucifer’s working: burning through the fire of the passions, drives, desires in the heart of the higher beings’ imaginations, inspirations, intuitions that are contained in the perception. Moses and the burning thorn bush. The working of Ahriman in the brain: cooling down Lucifer’s fire. Lovelessness is fuel for Lucifer’s fire. “I turn to the things...”.

JULY 14, 1914, NORRKÖPING..... 285

Becoming body-free in the proper meditation. The human organs as script signs of the gods. The “small brain” (cerebellum) as the remainder of the old Moon period. Re-forming of lungs and heart of the Moon human being to the pineal gland and mucous glands of the Earth human being. Formation of the Jupiter human’s brain from the deeds (“large brain” cerebrum) and thoughts (“small brain” cerebellum) of the Earth human being. Christ as helper and as judge; the “Last Judgment.” The results of the incorrect description of Yahweh by H. P. Blavatsky. The connection of spiritual science with Christ-knowledge.

Two Esoteric Lessons for the Youth Group

JULY 13, 1923, STUTTGART.....	406
-------------------------------	-----

People are asleep today in relation to the word. The word "I." The physical body is subjected to gravity; opposite is the force of the light. Experiencing lightness in the dream of flying. The force of lightness is connected with the Sun. Lighting up of dammed-up etheric substance in lightning. The mantra "My being is interwoven...". The vertical pulsating of plants in the light. Becoming free from the Earth by breathing. Rosicrucian mantra and the mantra "My being is interwoven...". Experience of gravity (physical): connection with the Father forces. Experience of lightness (etheric): connection with Christ. Experience of the breath (astral): connection with the divine Spirit. Image of the lotus flower. "AOUM Mane padme HUM" — "My I' is enclosed...". Explanation of the Sanskrit.

DECEMBER 30, 1923, DORNACH..... 414

The three-part mantra: “Human being, know your self...”; “Know first the earnest Guardian...”; “I stepped into this sense world...”. Youth: do not know more, but know differently. Experience the Earth as a star that rays forth; gleams; has density. Love gleams from the star, and truth forms the star. “Yasmajjatam jagat sarvam...”. End of Kali Yuga. Beginning of the Light Age. Most people meet the Guardian of the threshold unconsciously between their thirtieth and fortieth year. Making elemental beings noticeable. The warmth-love cloak from human karma and the Earth. Human thinking should shine out into the universe. Necessity for soul courage to connect again with the ancient sacred knowledge. Today’s answer to the demand, “Human being, know your self,” is no longer “AOUM,” but is: yes, I am there for your world deeds.
